Online Safety at home

Dear Parents,/Carers,

Whilst we teach your children about online safety in school, it is vital that this work continues at home. In a recent bulletin from Alan Mackenzie (e-safety advisor) he shared concerns that many parents have, including not knowing where to start and what conversations they should have.

To support with this, Internet Matters have made available a series of “things to do together”, which includes things like “Am I ready for a social media account?”

“Is it ok to ...” activities, an online safety agreement, “what if” scenarios and much more. All of these are free and can be found by using the following link:-

Yours sincerely
